First Year Housing:

- Alderman Road Residences: This area consists of 9 buildings which house over 1300 residents. These buildings are hall-way style with shared common areas on each floor. These are co-ed but gender is separated by floor. These are known as the “newer” dorms with a majority containing air-conditioning and elevators.

- Gooch/Dillard: This is located at the intersection of Alderman and Stadium Roads and houses approximately 620 first-year students. It consist of 9 four-floor buildings. These dorms are air-conditioned and built in the suite-style fashion. Although, Runk Dining is only a few steps away, these dorms contain two kitchens and four lounge areas. A typical suite accommodates 6 students in single rooms on two levels. There are also double rooms available. Each suite is single-sex.

- McCormick Road Residences: This area houses just under 1300 students in 10 buildings that approximately accommodate 125 students each. All the rooms are doubles except 30 small singles that are located on the hallways of each floor. The buildings are co-ed, but separated by gender on each floor. Rooms that share the same corridor also share a common bathroom.

Residential Colleges: These are dorms that 1st through 4th years can live in. There is an application for each residential college to make sure you can fit into the culture of each. There are 3 main residential colleges. These include Brown College (living for “the interesting and the interested”), the International Residential College (for students with a global mind set) and Hereford (for students who believe in sustainability). The Colleges are a great option for people who want to live with students who aren’t just first years.

Language Houses: These dorms are for upperclassmen who want to be immersed in a language. There is also an application process to go along with these language houses. The language houses offered here on grounds include a French House, a Spanish House, a German House and Shea House (Arabic, Chinese, Persian, Hindi and Urdu, Japanese and Italian Languages)
